

Egyptian Force Builds Secretly, Minister Admits

Woman Shot Down at Roadblock, Canal Lights Cut Off by Strike

CAIRO, Oct. 29 (AP). — Egypt's Interior Minister Foad Serag El Din Pasha said today he understands clandestine Egyptian "liberation battalions" are being formed as a result of nationalist fervor generated by the crisis between Britain and Egypt.

But Serag El Din said the growing organization "is a national movement which does not concern the government."

The minister denied reports that the Egyptian army is supplying arms to the underground organization.

In the canal zone British reinforcements continued to build up.

Military authorities blamed Egyptian police for not stopping an Egyptian woman shot by British troops when her limousine crashed a roadblock at Tel-el-Kehir.

British soldiers fired on the car, killing the woman, when it refused to halt.

In Cairo the Suez Canal Company announced that a strike of Egyptian mooring boat workers and searchlight electricians forced it to stop night passage of the waterway except for vessels operating their own searchlights.

In Khartoum, the Sudan Constitutional Commission asked the U.N. to send an international commission to supervise Sudanese constitutional development.

Eden, 54, came to quick grips with the Iranian oil crisis, the Egyptian troubles and western defense problems.

He summoned Sir Francis Shepherd, British ambassador in Tehran, for talks aimed at opening negotiations on the future of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. He also:

1. Decided that he personally would lead the British delegation to the General Assembly of the United Nations, opening in Paris Nov. 6.

2. Discussed with Walter Gifford and Rene Massigli, U.S. and French ambassadors here, the program for his western policy talks in Paris with State Secretary Dean Acheson of the U.S. and Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France.

3. Called in his advisers to study the Sudan's appeal for appointment of a U.N. advisory body.

4. Arranged for a new British note to Egypt, which may suggest "fresh avenues" for ending the crisis over the Suez Canal and Sudan.

Johnson Pledges Board Co-Operation in Probe

Premier Byron Johnson has given Opposition Leader Harold Winch assurance that the hospital insurance inquiry board will receive complete co-operation from now until the spring session of the legislature.

Mr. Winch had a lengthy meeting with the premier yesterday afternoon.

Before the meeting it was reported that the opposition leader might resign his seat on the board because of criticism leveled at it by Health and Welfare Minister Douglas Turnbull.

The minister's statement followed an attack by the board on the B.C.H.S. policy of fixed budgets for hospitals. The board alleged neither "rhyme, reason nor understanding" had been used in the budget cuts. The minister stated the board had not taken all facts into consideration.

Following his meeting with Premier Johnson, Mr. Winch said he was not considering resigning at the moment.

He said he had given the premier his impressions of the situation since the inquiry board began functioning last summer. "I told him very definitely that in my opinion the board has been sabotaged in its work," knowledge of "sabotage." He said he would see to it that the board is given complete co-operation.

Ship, Barge Collide; Oil Cargo Explodes In Buffalo Harbor

Three Die, Seven Lost; Flames Leap High in Air

BUFFALO, N.Y., Oct. 29 (AP)—The Great Lakes freighter Penobscot tonight rammed an oil barge under tow in Buffalo Harbor and the barge exploded. Three men were dead and seven missing.

The captain of the Penobscot and his helmsman were known to have been burned to death in their flaming pilothouse after backing the vessel away from the barge. An unidentified member of the tug crew also was known to have been killed.

The seven missing all were on the crew manning the tug and barge.

"We're beginning to give up hope on those who are still missing," a U.S. Coast Guard officer said.

Twenty or more were injured. The collision occurred about 9 p.m. E.S.T. and was followed by a dull explosion. Flames leaped an estimated 200 feet in the air, enveloping the barge and spreading quickly to the tug and the Penobscot.

Crew members of the freighter reported that the struck barge just back of the bow. They said Capt. Louis Guyette backed the ship up until it hit a pier.

Edward Myers of Dearborn, Mich., a watchman on the Penobscot, said he tied a line to the pier and that about a dozen men slid down it to safety.

After the tug, the Dawnless of Toledo, Ohio, and the Penobscot had been pulled away from the flaming barge, the Motana, two bodies were taken from the wreckage of the freighter.

Crew members said one was that of Guyette and the other that of Roy Richardson, 36, also of Port Huron, a wheelman.

The Penobscot, which unloaded a grain cargo yesterday, was leaving the harbor for Detroit and Duluth. The tow was in bound. The names of the tug and barge captains were not learned immediately.

The Penobscot is owned by the Nicholson Transit Company of Detroit. The company reported that it carried a crew of 34.

Size of the tug and barge crews was not known.

Thousands of spectators jammed their way into the waterfront area, creating traffic snarls that backed up into the downtown area.

Police issued frantic pleas for the public to keep away from the shore and adjacent streets so that fire equipment and ambulances could pass freely, but spectators still poured in.

Fresh Reds Stiff-Arm U.N. Patrols

U.S. 8TH ARMY H.Q., Korea, Oct. 30 (Tuesday) (AP). — Fresh Chinese defenses stiff-armed Allied tanks and infantry probing around battered Kumsong in central Korea Monday and launched furious attacks on their own.

Elsewhere U.N. forces gained less than one mile on the eastern and western fronts.

Four Allied tanks ran into heavy Red mortar fire in Kumsong.

Southeast of Kumsong, the Communists launched three attacks.

At Panmunjom, Allied and Communist truce sub-committees talked for one hour and 45 minutes before lunch today on their respective proposals for an armistice buffer zone across Korea.

For the first time since the talks were resumed last Thursday after a two-month break, the United Nations group produced a large relief map, presumably to point out terrain features they need to retain a sound defense line.

Spry Little Lady of 92 Found Safe on Mountain

A spry little lady of 92 was rescued from the side of Mount Douglas late last night after a 9½-hour afternoon stroll.

Mrs. W. M. Reid left her Glen Denning Road home, where she lives with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Taylor, shortly after 1 p.m. yesterday. Accompanying her was the family's little black-and-white cocker spaniel.

When her mother had not returned a few hours later, Mrs. Taylor began looking around the neighborhood. An "organized search" was begun shortly afterward and radio stations and the Saanich police were called in to help.

The firemen, Lieut. Hector McNeill, George Adams, Albert Jesson and Thomas Muir, helped Mrs. Reid into a waiting car and took her to Royal Jubilee Hospital.

She was home before long—a bit frightened, a bit cold, but still spry and cheerful.

"Lost Creek Mine" Claims 21st Victim

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Oct. 29 (CP). — Albert Gaspard, 60-year-old prospector, appears to have become the 21st victim of the "Lost Creek Mine."

A five-day search for the missing prospector made by R.C.M.P. Constable John Dowsett and veteran guide Stan Zepesky ended in failure.

The searchers hunted through the wilderness north of Pitt Lake, 45 miles north of here.

"We thought we'd find evidence of Gaspard's food cache but we didn't," said Zepesky today.

The searchers beat their way through canyons, scrambled up mountain sides and walked through old creek beds, seeking signs of a camp, but none was found.

Gaspard went into the mystery country 15 months ago, and he left a note, saying:

"By the time you read this I will have passed to the great beyond."

That note was opened in February, Dowsett said, and a guide then made an aerial survey of the area.

Montreal People Pull Out All Stops In Rousing Welcome to Royal Pair

By JOHN LEBLANC

MONTREAL, Oct. 29 (CP). — Princess Elizabeth and her husband came tonight to Montreal, a city festooned and agog these last three days with every intent of outdoing anything and everything that Canada yet has offered in the way of a Royal welcome.

The Royal couple—the Princess and the Duke of Edinburgh—came into town by aircraft from the prairie west and landed at Dorval Airport, about 14 miles west of the city proper at 4:27 p.m.

At 6:23 p.m., their car pulled up at the Windsor Hotel, where they will stay, to the accompanying roar of thousands massed in Dominion Square, directly across the street, brilliantly festooned and lighted with floodlights.

The crowd jammed the square for a solid block. Police guessed the throng from 50,000 to 100,000.

City mounted police, their horses' hooves painted silver, moved along Windsor Street which separates the hotel and the square.

Throughout most of the route from the airport, crowds were gathered.

In the square, the throng was so dense that some of the more venturesome climbed statues.

As their car moved slowly toward the hotel entrance, the Duke tapped his wife on the shoulder, then pointed to the decorated balcony a story and a half above the sidewalk on Windsor Street.

They entered the hotel and a few minutes later made a brief appearance on the balcony, waving to the cheering crowds.

Then they withdrew to the hotel. There were shouts of "we want Elizabeth! we want Elizabeth!"

The insistence of the crowd was not to be denied and both Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip, dressed in street clothes, appeared once more on the balcony.

The Royal couple left the hotel around 8:20 p.m. and drove to the West-End Forum where they witnessed their first full-length Canadian hockey game.

Both the Princess and the Prince appeared to enjoy the contest in which Montreal Canadiens downed New York Rangers 6-1.

Back once more at the Windsor, there were still some 10,000 people in Dominion Square. The Royal couple made several appearances on their balcony before retiring for the night.

EXTEND LOANS

Maurice Boivin (L., Nicolet-Yamaska), said that to increase food production the government should extend farm improvement loans to agricultural producers in larger amounts and at lower interest rates.

F. D. Shaw (S.C., Red Deer) said the Canadian people wanted parliament to deal with the cost of living before anything else.

R. R. Knight (C.C.F., Saskatoon) called for the removal of taxes and duties on good books as a means to encourage serious reading among Canadians.

There they met the Dionne quintuplets, Marie, Annette, Cecile, Emilie and Yvonne, now 17, stood in a line before the Royal visitors, who spoke to each of them in French.

The girls presented a group photograph of themselves to the Princess.

From North Bay the Royal pair took off on the last leg of a 1,100-mile flight which brought them to Montreal late yesterday afternoon.

Formal ceremonies were held yesterday morning, when the Princess and the Duke visited a grain elevator, received formal greetings at the city hall and appeared before 13,000 school children in Fort William and Port Arthur arenas.

There Princess Elizabeth met John Jenkins, late of Belfast, Ireland, who served as a leading seaman in the same gun turret with King George VI at the battle of Jutland.

KING "BETTER"

Jenkins offered his best wishes to the King for a quick recovery.

"I'll certainly tell him when I see him again," Princess Elizabeth replied. "I think he's really better."

Final stop for the day was at Fort William, where the couple spent the night in the Prince Arthur Hotel after driving a 10-mile route from the airport through that city and Port Arthur.

Turnbull Sitting Tight Despite Hospital Clash

Health and Welfare Minister Douglas Turnbull declared yesterday he had given no thought to resigning his office because of his current clash with the hospital insurance inquiry board.

Suggestion that the minister might resign followed closely the statement of Opposition Leader Harold Winch, a member of the board, that either the minister or the board should resign.

In a recommendation, filed last week in the legislature, the board declared neither "rhyme, reason nor understanding" had been displayed by B.C.H.S. in orders given British Columbia hospitals to cut their 1951 budgets.

Mr. Turnbull declared the board had not taken all facts into consideration when it framed the interim recommendation.

The recommendation was filed in the House when the C.C.F. pressed a resolution calling for the filing of all interim recommendations made by the board.

Mr. Winch attacked the government for trying to keep the critical recommendation under cover.

The recommendation favored restoration of budget cuts for hospitals operating under a deficit because of the cuts.

Arabs Countries Favor Pact

BEIRUT, Lebanon, Oct. 29 (Reuters). — Lebanon, Syria, Iraq and Jordan are willing to enter a Middle East defense organization as proposed by four western powers, informed sources said here today.

But all four Arab countries are preoccupied with Egypt's refusal to join. They are searching for a means of avoiding a clash with Cairo.

L.W.A. Members Favor Strike

VANCOUVER, Oct. 29 (CP). — Officials of the International Woodworkers of America (I.W.A.) announced here today that interior woodworkers are 91.2 percent in favor of strike action to enforce wage demands.

Princess and Prince Visit Six Cities, Cross Nation in Seven-League Boots

From Canadian Press Dispatches

Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip crossed five provinces, visited six cities, and traveled more than 2,000 miles in the 48 hours ending when they reached Montreal yesterday afternoon.

They spent 2½ hours in Saskatoon, Sunday morning, after an overnight train trip from Edmonton. In that time, they attended a civic reception, and a service at the St. John's Anglican Cathedral, and visited the campus of the University of Saskatchewan.

From Saskatoon, they took to the air, touching down at Rivers, Manitoba, before a crowd of 60,000.

There Princess Elizabeth met John Jenkins, late of Belfast, Ireland, who served as a leading seaman in the same gun turret

Driving for Royal Couple Highlight of Navy Career

The Royal visit to Victoria and Vancouver Island will be a highlight in the career of CPO Jack Rimmer, who was assigned to the task of driving the royal couple.

During the entire time Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh were on Vancouver Island their touring car was driven by the Victoria man.

Originally it had been planned to have three drivers for the royal car—one from each of the three armed forces.

"Why the plans were changed and why I was asked to remain as driver for the royal couple's entire stay here are questions I can't answer," CPO Rimmer said.

Their Royal Highnesses asked a number of questions as they were driven about the city and the island.

For years they had watched women stage such events with a certain degree of success. The men tried it last year, under the direction of Harold Whitfield, and his troop of helpers. Crowds lined up to get into their affair.

The men strongly decided to try it again this year.

Mr. Whitfield, president of the organization, is taking a back seat this year, and L. H. Noble has been put in charge of arrangements.

Private Funeral Set Thursday For E. H. Scott

Private funeral services for retired radio manufacturer Ernest Humphrey Scott, 61, Mayfair Drive, Mount Tabor, will be held at 3:30 p.m. Thursday in Hayward's Funeral Chapel.

Mr. Scott, a noted amateur movie-maker, died suddenly of a heart attack at his home Saturday afternoon.

Born at Dunedin, New Zealand, he served with the Allies in the First World War.

With the proceeds of a device he invented for use in internal combustion engines, Mr. Scott established a radio-manufacturing business in Chicago. The firm later gained international fame.

He retired in 1945 and moved to Victoria four years ago, where he concentrated on his movie-making. He showed many of his films here, including some on Victoria gardens.

Mr. Scott is survived by his wife Gladys.

Rev. J. L. W. McLean will officiate at the funeral and cremation will follow at Rosal Oak Burial Park.

CONSERVING BEE POWER

If you were a bee, you could, as bees do, use your wings as a fan to cool the house. But while bees are busy ventilating, they can't be gathering honey. So hives with aluminum roofs (ten to fifteen degrees cooler) make bees more efficient. Some day aluminum houses may do the same for housewives.

Aluminum is an ideal insulator for hives—and homes. This is one of a dozen reasons why the demand for aluminum is growing so rapidly. And why we are building new plants and powerhouses to make more aluminum. Aluminum Company of Canada Ltd. (Alcan).

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 29 (AP).—Cesspool is dead.

The little white pup, saved by a fireman from drowning in a storm sewer Aug. 9, was killed by an automobile today.

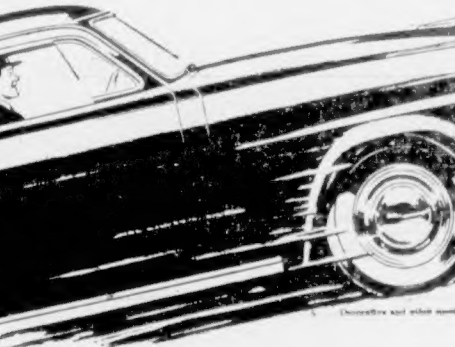

The tiny pup's picture appeared in many newspapers in Canada and the United States along with the story of his rescue. Fireman Robert L. Grayson, hero of the rescue, and fellow fireman adopted the pup, who was named "Cesspool."

Cesspool was playing in front of the fire house this morning when he darted into the path of an automobile.

Saanich Sewer By-Law May Not Be Sufficient

A $2,100,000 money by-law for sewer work in Saanich Municipality may be insufficient to area will be called about May.

City works superintendent, H. D. Dawson, said yesterday.

He said that increased costs since last December, when the by-law was approved, may not meet present costs. He did not estimate how much additional financing might be required, but he added that the present appropriation probably would be sufficient for most of the work.

Tenders for the first work in the sewer plan have been called and two inquiries answered, he said. Tenders close Nov. 19.

The work includes a tunnel under Hampton Street from Whittier Avenue to Seaton Road, and from Ker Avenue to Gorge Park. A main pumping station will be built in the park to lift sewage to a rising main and discharge at Harriet Road into the main Victoria system.

All the first work begun will be within the Gorge Park and from Victoria to San Sebastian Auto Court, as well as a few private lots, Mr. Dawson said.

The tunnel to Gorge Park and the main pumping station are expected to be completed August 31, 1952, and the Hampton tunnel by December 31, he added.

Five Firms Guilty Of Offense

Five match companies were found guilty today of forming and operating a monopoly controlling the Canadian match business and were fined a total of $85,000 and costs.

The fines, announced by Mr. Justice Valmore Bienvenue in giving his 68-page judgment, were:

Eddy Match Company Ltd., $25,000; Valcourt Match Co. Ltd., $25,000; Commonwealth Match Co. Ltd., $15,000; Canada Match Ltd., $10,000; Federal Match Ltd., $10,000.

The trial of the five companies on charges laid under the Combines Investigation Act began last April 2 and ended May 29.

In his judgment His Lordship said the Eddy Company formed and operated an illegal agreement from 1927 to 1950, sought to eliminate competition and "not by accident" found itself alone in the wooden-match industry.

The Valcourt Company, said His Lordship, was incorporated to help Eddy organize, operate and maintain control in the industry.

SPECIAL POSITION

Valcourt was in a special position, said the judgment. "The other companies aided Eddy in forming and exploiting the illegal coalition."

In acquiring Canada Match and Federal Match, the Eddy Company officers took precautions to hide their relations with Canada Match and Federal said His Lordship.

The judgment reviewed the monopoly's operations in such matters as setting resale prices for jobbers, establishing "fighting brands" in the trade, controlling prices and giving special discounts.

Through such operations, said Mr. Justice Bienvenue, Eddy paid substantial dividends in bad years and good, and its excellent financial situation was not surprising.

Oddities

RICHMOND, Ind., Oct. 29 (AP).—Jack Metcalf, 18, answered "yes" once too often in court today.

Judge Andrew Herlihy asked Metcalf a series of questions, and each time the answer was "yes." The judge wasn't satisfied that Metcalf was paying attention.

"You must think I look stupid," the judge said.

"Yes," answered Metcalf.

"Perhaps I do," said Judge Herlihy, "but you can't say so in court to my face."

Metcalf went to jail for contempt of court.

ROZEMAN, Mont., Oct. 29 (AP).—When a policeman here ordered the driver of a dilapidated roadster to turn on his headlights, he was told:

"I can do it officer, but every time I turn on the lights my motor quits."

BOSTON, Oct. 29 (AP).—A live silver fox tonight was reported running loose in the Massachusetts State House.

A police officer reported he saw the fox on the second floor—headed for the office of the state tax commissioner.

A trap was set but the fox made off with the bait without being caught.

Mercenaries Flying MIG's U.S. Jet Pilots Suggest

TOKYO, Oct. 29 (INS).—Flyers who fight the Russian-built MIG-15 jet speculated today that the Communist pilots may be hired soldiers of fortune of many different nationalities.

Far East Air Forces headquarters says it cannot state who flies the MIGs, but adds that the pilots are more than to confirm that Russian speaking voices have been heard on jet aircraft radios. However, one pilot told International News Service that he believed many of the Red pilots could be East German veterans of the Luftwaffe.

Another pilot said that he and virtually all his fellow pilots stationed at a West Coast air base in 1949 had been offered substantial salaries to fly for Communist China.

He said Chinese Red agents had offered to pay the pilots $1,200 monthly while flying.

Tooth Decay Increasing, Experts Can't Say Why

SAN REMO, Italy, Oct. 29 (Reuters).—Tooth decay, the experts say, is steadily getting worse all over the world.

The experts are 600 dentists meeting at San Remo for an international congress on diseases of the mouth.

Relative figures of the prevalence of tooth decay in highly civilized countries showed that in the United States, 98 per cent of the people suffer from it. Figures are slightly lower in Britain, France and Northern Europe and only 70 per cent in Italy.

Some 150 years ago, only a negligible percentage of the population of Europe and America suffered from decayed teeth.

While the experts failed to agree on all the reasons for increasing prevalence of this disease, they were unanimous in blaming diet as one important cause.

American dentists thought that sugar was to blame for the spread of the disease in North America.

European dentists pointed out that Europeans have barely enough sugar for day today use, yet tooth decay is almost as bad there as across the Atlantic.

Professor Alfred Frank Kantorowicz, professor of dental surgery at Istanbul University, expressed the opinion that mothers do not suckle their babies long enough. As a result, he said, many babies develop rickets. When they grow older, their teeth are bad.

Damage Claim Set at $60,250

EDMONTON, Oct. 29 (CP).—Damage claims arising from the Leduc Hotel explosion last Nov. 11 today reached $60,250 with the filing of a claim here for $60,250.

The natural gas explosion in Leduc, Alta., claimed 10 lives and sent 16 persons to hospital.

Latest damage action was started by Dolores Bernice Broman, widow of William Leroy Broman, oil worker killed in the blast. Broman also is survived by five children between five and 12 years of age.

Mrs. Broman's action is against Leduc Utilities Ltd. and Wilson and Wilson, contractors.

Dockers Agree Not to Obstruct Vital Shipments

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (AP).—Rebel dock strikers loosed their grip on military needs tonight, promising to end a wildcat stoppage of vital shipments to army outposts.

Elsewhere, stevedore pickets held sway on miles of idle piers as the big strike went into its third week. A back-to-work move slipped during the day.

New York's Commerce and Industry Association estimated close to $100,000,000 worth of imports and exports were piled up.

The back-to-work move fizzled, except for one pier where police held back angry pickets as 100 non-strikers swept in to unload the liner Queen Elizabeth.

Governor Thomas E. Dewey sent state mediators to the scene, where local and federal peace-makers have failed. He called the two-week-old wildcat strike "intolerable."

Edmonton Drivers To Vote on Strike

EDMONTON, Oct. 29 (CP).—Edmonton bus drivers will take a strike vote in the near future, it was announced tonight by Cecil Lohb, president of the Drivers' Union.

Mr. Lohb, commenting on city council's refusal today to budge from its $1.40-an-hour wage offer, said the vote date will be set by the Alberta Board of Industrial Relations which supervises such balloting.

Immediately after the vote the drivers will be in a legal position to strike against refusal of council to accept the report of a conciliation board which recommended a 16-cent-an-hour wage boost to $1.42.

U.S. Urges Plan To Move Iran Oil

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (AP).—The United States is reported urging Britain and Iran to agree to a stopgap plan for moving some $40,000,000 worth of stored Iranian oil to the West.

U.S. officials said today the State Department has suggested this to Premier Mossadeq of Iran as part of a "blueprint" for the oil problem.

The State Department is said to take the stand that Iran and Britain should agree to start moving at least the refined oil now stored in giant tanks on the Iranian coast before they sit down to iron out their dispute.

Emphasis now on a stopgap arrangement is based on the belief that even if there is agreement on a detailed plan of operation, this would require weeks or months to put into effect.

SOMEONE has said that if a man's family has a home without debt upon it somehow they will manage to live in it—even if he can't bare to provide for them.

Most men have fire insurance on their homes—but few realize that 34 out of every 200 men with mortgages will die during a 20-year term as compared with 1 in 200 who will have died.

An Excelsior Life "Mortgage Redemption" Policy is a step-down insurance plan which reduces systematically as the mortgage is amortized—add makes sure that your family will have your home mortgage-free if you should die prematurely.

Worth a Fair Trial

ANYTHING that can lessen segregation of the Indians in Canada and bring them more fully into the rights and privileges of other Canadian citizens should be worth an earnest trial to see how it works. In this category is the current application by British Columbia to the Dominion to end the discrimination which shuts tribesmen out of beer parlors in the province, although the right in question cannot be deemed an especially elevated one. In the past it has been the discrimination that has hurt, not the subject matter but the principle involved. To remove that discrimination, if it can be done without harm to the Indians themselves, would be a good thing. As in many other things, it is the use made of the privilege that would determine its future.

For another reason the suggested amendment to Indian regulations is of considerable importance. Despite the tradition that tribesmen are different from others in their reaction to stimulants, the case has never been too clear and has never been proved. The same trade-whisky which drove pioneer redmen berserk had just about the same effect on their white brothers if the truth were to be acknowledged. One effect of opening the beer parlors to tribesmen might well be the closing of some of the blind alleys down which they are sometimes led in search of other illicit concoctions. Here again, it will be trial and not theory that must be the final guide. Even then, why must it begin with beer-parlors? Are there not other places in which archaic and out-moded discrimination is still being visited against our oldest settlers of all?

New Political Horizons

IT IS always good to see young men strike boldly in the political field even if personal ambitions sometimes make them seem like young men in a hurry. Youth has its place in legislatures no less than age and it is a regrettable fact that in the nuances of internal party manoeuvring this is not recognized more generously. Nor can the impatience of youth be blamed if consistency is not one of its cardinal jewels.

Nevertheless it is intriguing to recall that dissident Coalition Conservative Mrs. Tilly Rolston made great play against Mr. Percy George in the Esquimalt by-election because at one time in the past he had stood as a candidate for parties other than Liberal. Now we have two prominent Young Liberals, closely allied in their campaign against the Coalition Government with Mrs. Rolston and the Okanagan's Mr. W. A. C. Bennett, another ambitious rebellious Conservative, breaking from their parties because of conversion to the Social Credit cause. Mr. Bennett, who knows, may follow suit, perhaps as the party leader in B.C. since a lesser role would scarcely content him, and Mrs. Rolston can hardly remain unaffected by these developments.

Politics, as has been well said, makes strange bedfellows, but so of course does life itself and because individuals want to bask in the same political sun this aphorism need not necessarily be held against them. This is a free country and individuals have the same liberty to change their political coats as they have to alter their eating habits. If the saying about the kettle and the pot comes to mind this is purely coincidental.

Mr. Ron Worley is rather off the course, however, when he says that Alberta is on an economic easy street because of Social Credit. He would be an English schoolboy when Mr. Aberhart evangelized that province into Social Credit and his knowledge of its prosperity will have come down to him second hand, and apparently none too accurately. Alberta's happy financial state derives from oil and other natural resources, not from any new way of life. The Manning administration enjoys public confidence because it has given honest and straightforward orthodox government. It long since dropped the theories of Mr. Aberhart, a fact made plain as a pike staff by the cleavages in the Social Credit movement itself.

Messrs. Bennett, Worley, Smith et al. may proceed with assurance to create a new political entity in B.C. That is their privilege. They need not be surprised, however, if the electorate views them as influenced by a desire to further their own political careers, a perfectly honorable ambition but one which nevertheless should not pass unnoted.

Princess Elizabeth Hospital?

EDMONTON'S city commissioners have decided to change the name of Portage Avenue to Princess Elizabeth Avenue, and no doubt many other Canadian cities visited during the Royal tour will make permanent record of the happy event in their street directories. It is a time-honored custom to name streets for distinguished visitors, especially those of Royal lineage, and it would be only fitting for Victoria to do something in this direction to commemorate the stay of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh in the capital city of British Columbia.

Unfortunately, though, Victoria already has a Princess Avenue and an Elizabeth Street, neither of which was on the route of the Royal procession. To rename some other thoroughfare would thus cause confusion. Also, any road named for Princess Elizabeth would have to be an important one, and most of the city's leading streets have old-standing names preserving historical associations which it would be a pity to drop.

A landmark named for the Princess need not necessarily be a street, however. A park or a public building, preferably one visited by the Princess, would be just as appropriate. Perhaps in view of the interest shown by the Princess in the Veterans' Hospital the city might like to suggest to the federal government the idea of naming that institution Princess Elizabeth Hospital. We feel sure that would please the Princess herself, just as much as the veterans and the hospital staff. Anyway there is something cold and institutional about the name "Veterans' Hospital," and the building has long been in need of a name with a more pleasant sound. On all counts, "Princess Elizabeth Hospital" seems made to order if consent were obtained.

CANADIAN CITIZENSHIP

Sir,—What is a Canadian citizen? Is it a person who settled here in the Dominion of Canada, minded their own business, and were decent law-abiding people? Is it a person, who twice saw their country threatened and fought and shed their blood, while another Canadian citizen piled up a fortune? Is it a person, who takes all and then when asked to conform to the educational rules of the Dominion of Canada is allowed to burn down the school house and parade in their nakedness?

I am amazed that since I have no papers to show I am a Canadian citizen, that perhaps for some breach of law I can be deported. Now that's not a very pleasant thought. Some time ago I signed myself British. I was scratched off and called Canadian. Now I'm not according to the morning's paper, a Canadian.

I had the very quaint notion that because I was British, because our fares to Canada were paid and as I mentioned we were decent hard-working people, that we voted as we saw proper and tried to uphold those standards that make a country great, and lived here long enough, we were citizens of Canada.

Apparently one has to be of any blood, hardly able to use Canadian language and pay a stipend (very small I suppose) and stand in a dingy room, mutter some very unintelligible word and presto you are a Canadian citizen, and may practice the old doctrine you brought with you, hold a country back, lower its living standards, and be a Canadian citizen.

Please tell me where to find a passport or entry to Canada? I was seven years old when I came here. My parents have passed on. Two wars have demolished most of records held in Britain, even the old tub that carried us over the ocean has been out of service long years ago.

If those who are so keen to see us called Canadian citizens, would take time out and give us some method of measuring Canadian citizens I should be delighted to co-operate. I trust they make it soon or I shall be another "man without a country" and have to go south and be a citizen there for about eight dollars. It is a good bet that if another carnage is working up, we'll all be Canadian citizens once more.

DRIVING TESTS

Sir,—The incident described under "A Conundrum," in The Colonist of Oct. 11 shows clearly that the Star Chamber tactics of the Provincial Motor Vehicle Branch are spreading fast.

All septuagenarians of the human race must have their driving ability tested every year; at first under unnatural lighting conditions, and then a road demonstration in which one is asked to do certain acts which a mature person would never attempt.

A prairie couple in the above category, neighbors of mine, set off for town one day this summer; leaving his wife at a department store, the husband proceeded to his appointment with the Provincial Police expecting his driving test to be a token affair. To his amazement, he was told that his driving license was canceled and that he must get someone to drive him home and no further explanation given.

One can only surmise, after reading the daily accidents in the paper, the catastrophic accident that would merit such a sentence. Indeed, it would seem to constitute an actionable offence against the Bill of Human Rights when a man is so humbled after a faultless driving record in other Canadian provinces.

A BETTER SEASON

Sir,—Now that the arduous tour of our beloved Royalty is over I think something should be said on behalf of the Princess and her consort, that should another visit be contemplated that it be arranged between June 1 and Sept. 30 when good weather is reasonably assured. Such a happy occasion deserves a more congenial time of the year in behalf of the people of Canada also.

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes—and ships—and sealing
was—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

THIS change in the passport regulations now; I wonder what genius thought this up.

There will be tens of thousands of people like yours truly, who until today fancied themselves Canadians without shadow of doubt. Wasn't there a Citizenship Act passed a year or so back? And didn't it make official the status of expatriates domiciled in the Dominion before the act became law?

And now... Prove your legal entry, says some immigration official reared on red tape. Ye gods!

Fancy—ten, twenty, thirty years later, having that stumper thrown at you, and you a peaceful, law-abiding citizen who's been coughing up income taxes for decades.

If you can't prove you came into Canada legally, you won't get a passport to leave it. There you are, frozen for ever. Talk about an Iron Curtain!

Now what chump sat down and dreamed up this refinement? Produce your immigration landing card. If you can't, then dig deep into your memory and swear to the exact date you entered, the name of the port, the name of the ship—why not the color of the buson's hair?

And if you were a babe in arms when you came ashore, produce a guardian to take an affidavit you weren't smuggled in a hamper.

What idioy.

How in thunder is a person who's been here for donkey's years to satisfy such bureaucratic stupidity? Who would keep a landing card all that time? Who can be expected to remember all such far-off details?

Speaking personally, I know I landed at Halifax—and that it was raining, perhaps no wonder, but beyond that... poof!

So, says some bright again, I'm stranded.

Well, if I can't prove I entered Canada legally, then I'm illegal. And if that's the case so is the money I've earned, and so are the taxes Mr. Abbott and his predecessors have stuck me for.

I wonder if he'll give me them back!

But where in all this stroke of messy genius does the Citizenship Act come in? Can some silly passport official set it aside at will? Doesn't the act turn these expatriates into Canadians, and can't they send a dollar and get a certificate to that effect? And if they can't that make them legal? And doesn't it confer absolution for their now suspected entry?

Heaven!

Long before and ever since that act came in, one-time Britons, Danes, Belgians et al., have been coming and going on visits to their birth lands without the slightest hindrance. And now some Johnny gets a bee in his bonnet and says "Stop!"

Why?

I've thought it bad enough to have my suitcase rifled as though I were a burglar when I came back from a jaunt across the line. Never did I dream that at this late date I'd be treated like an impostor if I seek to cross the Atlantic. (Not that I'm thinking of doing so, but no matter.)

You can imagine what this kind of inquisition will do to those sweet old ladies you see going to the Old Country every year. It will paralyze them. Unless someone with sense paralyzes the joke who perpetrated this piece of crass nonsense. I hope he gets smacked good and hard.

Reports From Ottawa

WHAT Foreign Minister Pearson described as the underlying unity of parliament on the basic issues of foreign policy is both remarkable and comforting.

It's remarkable because agreement on foreign policy hasn't always been possible among the political parties represented in parliament, and because disagreement on such policy is still a major factor in the politics of our two most powerful allies, the United States and Great Britain.

It's comforting because when men of various political convictions can see pretty nearly eye to eye, the country can speak with a stronger voice in international affairs. Moreover, it speaks sound logic and psychology in the formulation of policy, and contributes to national unity by removing one topic from the large list over which our politicians and our people succeed in disagreeing.

You could carry that a little farther and conclude, then, that when our politicians succeed in agreeing, they make the ordinary business of living in our complex civilization a little less difficult and worry-filled for all of us.

One after another last week, the foreign affairs experts of the four national parties stood in their places in parliament and expressed a common belief in the rightness and correctness of the main courses the Liberal government is following in its relations with other states.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

IN the last couple of years, a new grape has come plentifully into the fruit stores at this season of the year called the Thompson seedless, a sort of miniature Malaga of the Empire.

Not only is it seedless; it is mighty near skinless. It melts in your mouth. And the flavor is doubtless the one the Creator had in mind when He imagined the first grape.

It is apparently a more fragile grape than the Malaga, for in past seasons it has disappeared from the stores around Christmas or shortly after. Maybe by that time they have all been eaten up. I for one shouldn't wonder. I do my best. For I date back to the days before refrigeration, and long before the world-wide traffic in all the delicate fruits and vegetables that are available the year round now.

In my childhood, after a brief glory of the harvest in September and October, when we ate the fruit and the perishable vegetables, we faced the long winter in which only the "cellar" vegetables were to be had—potatoes, turnips, parsnips, cabbage—whatever would keep over winter in root-house or cellar. Oranges, even, were chiefly a Christmas treat.

We had barrels of apples, of course, in the cellars too. But all else that was delectable had been converted by Grandma into preserves, jams and jellies. And they were not the same, however good.

This generation has no awareness of its fabulous blessings with regard to food. Lettuce, celery, tomatoes, greens of all kinds, fruits, all the year round. With a bowl of these new grapes gleaming on the sideboard, for dessert, the

Orchestra Masters Difficult Symphony

By RAY BAINES

The Victoria Symphony Orchestra met at a difficult challenge last night and came out on top.

Jians Gruber said earlier that the Tchaikovsky Sixth Symphony which was on last night's program was one of the most difficult works ever attempted by the Victoria orchestra.

They should program more difficult works. The results were worth it.

For the lover of descriptive music, the Pathétique has just about everything. It can set your heart pounding, lift you joyfully to your feet, and dash you down to despair.

It stirs you, elates you, and then crushes you.

All this, provided the performance is technically good.

The Victoria Symphony performance was good and thoroughly effective, if not perfect.

SOME INTERRUPTIONS

Elation was sometimes interrupted by a brass miscue, and joy by the occasional non-united unison string passage.

But the work came off with a good deal of the fire, brimstone and thunder which have endeared it to music lovers for 60 years.

From a purely technical point of view, it seemed that the brass ran into difficulty sometimes. This perhaps was most noticeable in the third movement, the Allegro Molto, where the burden on the shoulders (and embouchures) of trumpet men is admittedly great.

But under Mr. Gruber's able guidance, the performance caused a near-capacity audience to burst into spontaneous applause after the third movement.

ODD FINISH

Some might say that the audience thought the work was finished at this point.

Tchaikowsky wrote the triumphant, crashing "end" in the third movement and saved the soulful, "pathetic" lamentous movement until the close, but we like to think they just couldn't contain themselves until the end of the fourth movement.

In any case, it was an ambivalent thing to take on and we don't think Mr. Gruber and the orchestra did it well.

Any imperfections were purely technical and did not detract from the magnificent "feel" which went into the interpretation of the music.

The Blzer Suite from "Carmen" was probably less difficult, but equally satisfying. Here is music with gaiety, real melody and—meaning all wrapped up in a wonderful package.

LOOKED EASIER

It was not simple because it was "light" or more familiar to the listener. It looked easier, because the musicians played it well.

The La Garde Montante movement, with the Toreador Song melody wending its rollicking way, were truly Carmen. The performance here was wonderful to watch and tasty to hear.

The program led off with the well-known Merry Wives of Windsor by Nicolai, which is as familiar as the performance was good.

Some of the Haydn and Handel fans might say "enough of this familiar stuff, let's have real classical music."

But about 1,500 people seemed thoroughly satisfied with what they heard last night—both the program and the way it was handled.

Three no-trump would have been an ironclad contract, as it happened, since the one dangerous suit, diamonds, was divided 4-3 between the opponents, but the four-heart contract was considerably more logical.

West opened the diamond king and continued for two more rounds. South ruffed, drew the necessary round of trumps, and then informed his partner that they would need a little luck. As though to prove this point, South forthwith took the club finesse. East captured dummy's queen and led his remaining diamond, and at the end South had to give up a spade trick and acknowledge defeat.

It would have been a very good idea for West to shift to spades at the second trick, but since South was fortunate enough to be given a "soft" defense, he should have taken advantage of the fact. After ruffing the third diamond and drawing the outstanding trumps, he should have Argentina in a report issued from Buenos Aires, claims it has perfected an atomic bomb capable of producing atomic energy to industrial uses, and added it may soon open its atomic laboratories to other nations.

This announcement, latest in a series of claims dating back to March 24, was made by Ronald Richter, Austrian scientist who is director of Argentina's atomic experimentation program.

At Las Vegas, Nev., meanwhile, U.S. scientists and technicians test site today. Troops may begin their mock atomic war in the area Thursday, it was said.

What They're Saying

Admiral William M. Fechteler, U.S. chief of naval operations, predicts in Paris that the navy will be able to overcome the Soviet submarine menace in the event of war. Any new weapon, he pointed out, is always followed by an effective counter-weapon.

In Ottawa R. R. Knight (C.C.F. Saskatoon) has told the Commons that the government should encourage serious reading in Canada by removing duties on good books. Taxes and duties, he maintains, now push the cost of such books beyond the reach of the average citizen.

The commission on military training in Washington urges that 60,000 U.S. 18-year-olds be called up for universal military training by June 1, regardless of whether there is a truce in Korea.

What They're Doing

Experts at Canada's National Research Council laboratories in Ottawa have developed a new machine and medical technique which may revolutionize the whole approach to cold-exposure treatment. The new system reverses today's treatment by warming viral organs first instead of warming from the outside inward.

Still in the medical field, a dispatch dated only from Korea tells of another stride in army medical progress—establishment of a neuro-surgical team which operates within 20 miles of the front line. The team specializes in treating penetrating wounds of the head as well as spinal injuries.

A Vancouver report tells of the apparent success of a scheme in which California beetles were imported to B.C. to battle the growing "Klamath weed" menace which threatened range country and young trees.

The executive committee of the Canadian Congress of Labor met yesterday in Ottawa to confer on the situation emerging from the resignation of Par Conroy as secretary-treasurer of the congress. The executive council of the C.C.L. meets today on the same subject. Conroy resigned during the convention held at Vancouver.

From Here and There

From Quito, Ecuador, comes word that the two largest cities of that South American country, as well as parts of the provinces, were almost paralyzed yesterday by a 24-hour workers' strike called as a protest against parliament's failure to enact changes in the social insurance law, increase wages, and clamp price controls on food and other items.

Frank McKinney, banker of Indianapolis, says he has agreed to dispose of all his interests in a U.S. company and accept the chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee.

The U.S. Office of Price Stabilization in New York has issued flat dollars-and-cents ceiling prices for fluid milk sold to retailers by the processor and distributor. This is the first change in U.S. milk prices since they were frozen last January.

More good news—for U.S. buyers—comes from Chicago. There it is predicted that the price of 1952 spring shoe styles may be 25 cents to one dollar lower per pair. Reasons: consumer resistance to present prices, and lower leather costs.

The World Bank in Washington announces that Yugoslavia and Finland have finished repaying loans totalling $5,000,000 during the three months ending Sept. 30.

Funeral Services Held For Well-Known Angler

Funeral services were held yesterday for Leonard Holyoak, 61, one of the first members of Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association.

During his association with the club, he became well known for his invention of the "Mae West" fishing spoon.

Mr. Holyoak also was well known as a member of the Victoria Chrysanthemum Society and a winner in several international flower shows.

He died Thursday in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Rev. William Hills conducted the funeral service. Cremation followed. McCall Bros. Funeral Home had charge of arrangements.

Survivors include: Mrs. M. Holyoak, at the family home, 2029 Carnation Street; one son,

CAUSE OF DELAY

EDMONTON (CP)—City Commissioner Blair Menzies noted in a report to council that Edmonton transit drivers often stay too long at the end of their runs to indulge in a cigarette, which results in speeding along bus routes to make up the lost time.

Cost of Sending Parcels to Britain Will Go Up as Preferred Rate Ends

Cost of sending parcels to the United Kingdom is going to be higher from now on. The Post Office Department announced Monday from Ottawa that reduced charges for gift parcels from Canada have been withdrawn and that land handling charges on all parcels have been increased.

The announcement said that with the suspension of the Economic Co-operation Agreement, the basic reason for the special gift parcel reduction no longer exists.

Special rates were originally introduced to give Commonwealth mailers concessions similar to those enjoyed by the American public because of E.C.A. charges for trans-Atlantic shipping necessitates an increase in parcel post rates, effective Jan. 1, 1952, the release added.

REDUCTION FOR MAIL
The postal picture was brightened slightly by the postmaster-general's announcement of specially reduced rates for certain categories of mail for Canadian forces in Europe.

Effective immediately, parcels for members of the Canadian forces anywhere in Europe will be accepted at a concessionary rate of 15 cents a pound, or fraction thereof, up to the 10-pound limit.

In order to obtain this reduced rate, parcels must be addressed as follows:

Number Rank
Unit
C.A.P.O. 5050 (or 5051);
c/o Postmaster-General
Montreal, Que.

As a further concession, it was also announced that the 10-cent Canada air letter, addressed as above, may be used regardless of the location of the Canadian force in Europe. This means that the 10-cent air letter will

Trained Dog Seeks Trail Of Gem Thief

VANCOUVER, Oct. 29 (C.P.).—R.C.M.P. officers and a trained dog have been sent from Vancouver to assist in attempt to track down a thief who escaped with jewelry valued at more than $20,000 at Nimpkish Logging Camp, near Alert Bay.

The jewelry, consisting of diamond rings, watches and other articles, was taken from the sample cases of Robert Douglas Oxford.

Police said the thief forced a window of a room in which the jewelry had been displayed, and that locks on the sample cases were smashed open.

The R.C.M.P. dog, Bobby, is now trying to find the trail of the thief.

Club Planning Repeat Show

New Imperial Club's Sunday presentation of "A Parade of the Stars" at the Fox Theatre netted the Queen Alexandra Solarium $750, club officials said yesterday.

A repeat performance is planned this Sunday. About 500 persons were turned away last Sunday.

Bernard Nixon has offered the use of the theatre free of charge again to the club.

Nanaimo Applauded For Lack of "Brass"

NANAIMO, Oct. 29.—Mayor Earle C. Westwood is snowed under with fan mail today. Letters came to him from Winnipeg, Chilliwack, New Westminster, Courtenay, Vancouver and Victoria filled with praise for the job done by this city in the reception for Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

Everyone stressed the fact that the children had been given preference and "brass" was kept to a minimum.

Pick of Slides To Be Shown To Veterans

Outstanding color slides chosen by the Victoria Camera Club's 11th International salon of photography will be given two special showings here.

First to see the 265 slides of the 694 received will be patients at the Veterans' Hospital at a showing Wednesday.

First public showing will be at the Legion Hall, Esquimalt, on Nov. 7, under sponsorship of the Dockyard branch of the Canadian Legion.

Creator of one of 16 slides awarded the Thunderbolt Crest award of the Victoria Camera Club for outstanding merit was Stephen Jones, the club's color chairman.

Group Praised For Assistance To Immigrants

Problems facing foreign immigrants upon arrival in Victoria would be easier to solve if more city agencies were to co-operate with the Victoria Citizenship Council.

This opinion was expressed Monday to a special V.C.C. luncheon by Dr. W. G. Black, of Vancouver, regional liaison officer of the department of citizenship and immigration, citizens' branch.

He also praised the council for its pioneer work in coordinating citizenship activities.

In stressing the need for participation of as many agencies as possible, Dr. Black said that the greatest single problem facing the immigrant was "finding him over" until he found employment and his revenue began.

He suggested that to augment the work of the council, social workers and ministers should form a group whereby members of both professions could share the benefits of each other's work.

Swedish interest in buying British Columbia food products, Olof Ternstrom, trade representative of the General Export Association of Sweden, declared yesterday in an interview.

At the same time, the Scandinavian country is interested in tools and machinery in British Columbia, he said.

"Mr. Ternstrom stated the fame of British Columbia food products had traveled widely.

"Both B.C. salmon and fruit are well known in Sweden," he said.

"The more we can sell here, the more we can buy," explained Mr. Ternstrom. He said this was the reason for his month-long mission to the Pacific Coast and also why the Swedish Export Association has maintained an office in the Swedish Consulate in Montreal since 1946.

Swift Official Gains Chest Extra $1,000

A burst of speed by a Community Chest official has resulted in an extra $1,000 donation for the chest fund.

Speedy man was CIVI man—recently elected chairman of the Community Chest—campaign committee.

It all started Saturday when Mr. Chesnut received a tip that someone had a gift for the fund. Leaving the station's Gordon Head transmitter, where he was working on civil defense equipment, Mr. Chesnut headed for the nearest phone.

"When I finally located the person," said Mr. Chesnut, "he told me he had $1,000 for me, but that if I got to his house within 10 minutes he would make it $2,000."

Without stopping to remove his greasy overalls, Mr. Chesnut started out immediately and reached his objective just under the wire and collected the fat check.

The donor wished to remain anonymous.

Rogers was accompanied by Henry Hilderbrand, high school teacher, and Stanley Rye, an employee of Western Plywoods. They said a rifle fell, discharging a bullet that struck Hilderbrand in the foot, then ricocheted and wounded Rogers in the leg.

Esquimalt Council Puts Off Decision On Traffic Light at Admirals Road

The question of traffic lights on Esquimalt Road was tabled last night by the municipal council.

Earlier, the council had referred the question to the board of police commissioners and to Police Chief G. S. Stancombe.

Police commissioners recommended the light be placed at Esquimalt and Canteen Roads rather than at Esquimalt and Admirals Road.

Chief Stancombe advised the council that in his opinion the light at Esquimalt and Admirals would only serve to add to traffic congestion at other points on Esquimalt Road.

Council will invite the police commission to the next council meeting to discuss the matter.

Council tabled a suggestion from the Esquimalt-Ratepayers' Association that the Federal government be asked to finance repairs to Colville Street sidewalks and to resurvey the area.

The council will confer with the municipal solicitor on the possibility of receiving government aid.

Council also tabled the public works by-law for further committee discussion.

Orders Roll In For U.K. Ships

The British shipbuilding industry is now in an unprecedented position, according to Sir Amos Ayre, chairman of the U.K. Shipbuilding Conference.

The industry has 6,250,000 gross tons on order. The post-war peak was in 1948, when the industry had taken 2,000,000 gross tons of orders.

In 1949 that had declined to 400,000 gross tons. For the 12 months ending last Sept. 30 the order total was 4,000,000 tons.

Timber Cutting Drop Laid to Drought

Timber cut in the Vancouver forest district in September was only about one-third of the total cut in the same month last year.

The forest closure brought on by the drought is regarded as the reason for the drop.

During last month, 116,348,594 board feet of timber were cut in the Vancouver forest district, which includes Vancouver Island, equal to one-third of the cut in September, 1950.

Total timber cut throughout the province in the first nine months of this year, however, remained above the total cut in the same period last year.

The January-September cut this year is 441,283,160 board feet, compared with 302,412,196 board feet cut during the same period of 1950.
